Е

I don t wanna fight no more

When love and hate collide.

C#m

I don t know what we're fighting for.

Α

When we treat each other baby

Like an act of war
  I could tell a million lie
                                        C#m
  But it would come as no suprise.
  When the truth is like a stranger
                                                   в
  It gets you right between the eyes
  There's a time, and place, and reason
  And I know i ve got a love to believe in.
C#m
  All I know got to win this time
                                           Α
                                                   В
  Without you, one night alone,
                                                в
  It's like a year without you baby,
                                           В
  Do you have a heart of stone?
                C#m
                                                    Α
  Without you, cant stop the hurt inside,
  When love and hate collide.

  You could have a change of heart,
  If you would only change your mind,
                       C#m
  'Cause I m crazy bout you baby
  Crazy, crazy
                 Е
                                                   В
  Without you, one night alone,
                                                В
  It's like a year without you baby,
                                          В
  Do you have a heart of stone?
                                                   в
                                           Α
  Without you, one night alone,
                                                В
  It's like a year without you baby,
  If you have a heart at all
                C#m
                                                    Α
  Without you, cant stop the hurt inside,
  When love and hate collide.
