THE DAY THEY FREED THE NOISE   -   Doug Ashdown

     D5                      D*
The    day they freed the    noise
            D - Dsus4                    D
There were           scarlett coated    boys
         D5                     D*
Marching     down the village     morra fair
           D - Dsus4                           D
We were           there, werenÂ´t we brother, we were    there

         D                              E7
We were    there, werenÂ´t we brother, we were     there
        G                                 D
We were    there, werenÂ´t we brother, we were    there
          D                                   E7
We were    there, when they killed him, werenÂ´t we     brother
        G                             D        Dsus4 - D /
We were    there, we were there, we were    there

         D                   E7
And the    birds still sang,    then, didnÂ´t they
G                       D       Dsus4 - D - Dsus2 -
   When we had ears to    hear
D                           E7
   And the trees still grew    in the foggy sun
G                D
   For they had no    reason to fear

G                       F - Em
  A crushing blow        Of the axeman steel
D             A             Asus4 - A
   As it shot     upon us all

D                       E7
   And the houses wept,     As the children slept
G                     D
   They knew the walls    would fall

           D                                 E7
And we were    there, werenÂ´t we brother, we were     there
        G                               D
We were    there, werenÂ´t we brother, we were    there

             D                                         E7
We were    there, when they killed him, weren´t we      brother
         G                                D         Dsus4 - D /
We were    there, we were there, we were     there

 D                E7
   Number zero,     forty-one,
     G                   D
with    hast the dog-tag    read
         D                          E7
As his    blind eyes lookd at the     foggy sun
    G                         D
He    didn´t know the noise was    dead
G                        F - Em
 And the words still rang      then didn´t they
D            A              Asus4 - A
 Without the    years to hear
D                             E7
 And the trees were burned by the    foggy sun
G                      D        Dsus4 - D
 They had reason now to    fear

          D                                         E7
And we were    there, weren´t we brother, we were      there
        G                                 D
We were    there, weren´t we brother, we were    there
           D                                      E7
We were    there, when they killed him, weren´t we      brother
         G                                D         Dsus4 - D /
We were    there, we were there, we were     there

          D                                         E7
And we were    there, weren´t we brother, we were      there
        G                                D
We were    there, weren´t we brother, we were    there
           D                                      E7
We were    there, when they killed him, weren´t we      brother
         G                                D         Dsus4 - D /
We were    there, we were there, we were     there

          D                                         E7
