Where Dragons Rule DragonForce Intro: F#m E D E F#m D E F#m E D E F#m C# F#m F#m Full moon and midnight sky Through the dark they ride D Warriors of forever will sacrifice the night F#m E D One for all and all for one F#m The future time has come Faces filled with torment Your heart beats like a drum F C Never will you surrender G You ll fight on til the end Together we will be strong with him Forever ... G G F:m In this land we have defended from all things dark and cruel G DmNow we are defenseless in a land where dragons rule G Εm G In this land we have defended from all things dark and cruel F#m G Now we are defenseless in a land where dragons rule Solo: F#m D E Flash of steel in the mid-day sun The battle has begun

D

Blood spills all around us but still we carry on

```
No mercy we will show to them
The white flag shall be raised
We ll fight for our freedom
Ride towards this evil place
                   F#m
We all stand until the end allegiance to this game
     F#m
                       E
                                   C#m
                                                      D
                                                             E
In this land we ve defended from all things dark and cruel
               E
                          \mathbf{Bm}
Now we re defenseless in a land where dragons rule
     F#m
                       E
                                 C#m
                                                             Е
In this land we ve defended from all things dark and cruel
            E
                D
                                   C#
Now we re defenseless in a land where dragons rule
F#m
Sun set in the western sky
The battle s almost done
The victory will be glorious
Our enemies are gone
                   F#m
                           Bm
We all stand until the end allegiance to this game
                       E
                                   C#m
                                                             Е
In this land we ve defended from all things dark and cruel
               E
                    Bm
Now we re defenseless in a land where dragons rule
     F#m
                      E
                                   C#m
                                                             Е
                                                      D
In this land we ve defended from all things dark and cruel
            E
                         D
                                   C#
Now we re defenseless in a land where dragons rule
Solo: F#m D E
( F#m E C#m D )
```

F#m