A G D A

Α

Feel the southern breezes

G

and the southern wind

D

Blowing down around this

dying land (from the booklet, the song is something different)

Α

D Agostino s late last night I saw

A boy fifteen on the road

ח

With nothing in the pocket

his head to sky nowhere else to go

Can you see it or believe it
To send the corner man

He s never been
Come with me
I ll show you where the Dogwoods bloom it s true lost and found and lost again to the Honeysuckle blue

Running through these caverns of gold Runs a river of death indeed an old hotel serves as a shelter for the children of the street

abandoned by the promised land set sail on your own how much longer will the well be dry for those who roam

I got a ticket in my pocket
to send the corner man
He s never been

Have you ever seen the Blue Ridge mountains boy or the Chatahootchee or the honeysuckle blue

Call me to the promised land Stand outside to understand Far too close to see things through Once on edge and once removed

Call me to the promised land and roll me down the road
Run down and leave me lying on the road alone
If you got time I ll take you through the times of love and war Stand by my side and let it all run out to roar?
Well I got a dream and I got a love by it s standing far too low
And I got something to know again and its all bound by law
Well I m bound by law you running for and holding me all alone lost and found and lost again to the Honeysuckle blue
