Two little boys, with little guitars, went for a walk, then went around the world Where can we go In search of a song? You play with your toys, until theyre all

Little antiques and dust on the shelf, once they were loved and left to themselves

Two little boys that went their own ways, ones still around and ones in the grave

You reach for the light, you look to the stars, and good things come hard The ghost of a dream still hides in your heart, good things come hard (2x)

Somewhere in your voice, your broken apart, good things come hard No longer alive, can take your guitar, good things come hard (2x)

I look around and there is nothing left to see

Cmaj7 Am I hear the sound of music fading desperately, away from me, away from meeee
