

G Am G C
 All the seconds And the minutes And the hours And the days
C# D E
 And the weeks And the months And the years of my life
D B E
 It was all worth it, To be here now
F G
 I m a hummingbird Floatin tree to tree
F G C
 I m a hummingbird Beautiful and free

[Verse]

G                               Em                               F
The old oak tree was dead; I had to cut it down

G                               Em                               F
The sapling roots were new and sprouting through the ground

G                               Em                               F
New worlds were taking shape, unseen and unknown

G                               Em                               F
A branch to rest upon A place to call my own

G                               Em                               F
Something had changed, and I m not sure how or why

G                               Em                               F
I wasn t dreaming, I was awake, I was alive

G                               Em                               F
Gave up the ghost, he had nothing left to say

G                               Em                               F
But it was him who brought me to this day
