VERSE
   C#m
                                           A7
The sun is up and the shades are all pulled down
                    G#/B
I m more paranoid with every little sound
Like the leaf blower blowing the leaves around
And a siren wailing on the other side of town
VERSE
                                            A7
Oh the TV s on and the colors really hurt my head
                           G#/B
If I could think straight I d wish that I was dead
  C#m
Or curled up naked in my lover s bed
           G#7
                                                  C#m
Instead I m hanging over Hell suspended by a single thread
Chorus
           F#m7
And I don t recall who said it at this time
                    E
That your enemies grow strong on what you leave behind
          F#m7
I built it up and the wolf he came around
He huffed and puffed, he huffed and puffed
             G#7/D
He huffed and puffed,
                            F#m7
                                   G#7
He huffed and puffed and the house fell down

VERSE
                                            Α7
With a rolled up note I m hovering on that line
                     G#/B
Three days on a diet of cocaine and wine
And a little weed just to level me sometime
I put the clock in the drawer cause I ve cancelled out the time
Chorus
               F#m7
And still that saying gets inside my head
                     \mathbf{E}
That your enemies grow strong on what you leave behind
           F#m7
I built it up and the wolf he came around
He huffed and puffed, he huffed and puffed
              G#7/D
He huffed and puffed,
                              F#m7
                                     G#7
He huffed and puffed and the house fell down
BREAKDOWN
         Bbm7/b5
So don t knock on my door, don t try to call
I m holed up in this room talking to the wall
               Bbm7/b5
When you re as high as this you think you know it all
                                                 G# G#/A G#/B G#/A G#7
When you re this deep in there s no place else to fall
