

This Is The Story
Elvis Presley

Standard Tuning (Capo 1)

Intro - A

A                                   E                                   F
I play the song, that was our own. Your photographs by C A                                   D                                   Bm                                   E A my side. I know I can't forget you, so I don't even try. A note
E                                   F                                   C A you left is in my hand, I read again what you say. You're sorry
D Bm                                   E
but you love him, and you both gone away
A D                                   C#m                                   F#m
Refrain-This is the story of man, who's world has fallen apart,
D A                                   E A
and it's the story, that is breaking my heart.

An open fire, a favorite chair, I get a book from the shelf. But the words I am reading, could apply to myself. (refrain) Transcribed by Daniel J. Langa

Inherit the Wind
Standard tuning

Note: Play this song in the key it's written for the original version. Use a Capo 1 to play the version from the Collectors Gold album, which is a live version of this song from 1969.

Intro-B

E                                   F#m                                   B                                   E
Baby don't fall in love with me, I'll only bring you grief.
E                                   F#m                                   B                                   E
Baby don't set your heart on me, I'll only have to leave.

A                                   E                                   A                                   E
Refrain-Because the north winds flows through my veins. Like
A                                   E                                   C#m

my dad there's a dream in my brain. In the morning I'll have to leave again, well that's how it is when you, inherit the wind, E                                   B

F#m                                   A                                   E                                   D

inherit the wind
Daddy he was a traveling man. I hardly knew his face.
Mama she cried for him at night, he never stayed in one place
Well I can't give you the love you need. You just won't be here that long. But if you still want me here tonight, I'll love you till the break of dawn