www.everydaysunday.com they are americans here is stand up by everyday sunday. it is a pretty easy song and is really fun to play with the cd. now if you are playing the acoustic guitar then you use standard chords and you play the whole song. if you are playing the electric then you use bar chords and play on the second chorus to the end.

standard tuning acoustic plays:

CHORUS: D A G A

VERSES: D

Electric plays: the same chord but they are barre so it is something like this

	D	A	G	A
e	--5----	5-----	3-----	5----- b	--5----	5-----	3-----	5----- g	--7----	5-----	3-----	5----- d	--7----	7-----	5-----	7----- a	--5----	7-----	5-----	7-----
E	--5----	5-----	3-----	5-----

the bridge is little tricky so i might not have it right but who cares so this is what i do i just play the G over and over kinda picking the strings in different orders until the build up then i strum down on the G pretty hard and it is back to the chorus after that over all this is a pretty easy song so enjoy playing along with the cd and of you don't have it get it it is a good cd and listening to the cd will help you get the right rhythm
