Put the chair against the handle in the window light a candle when you re smoking up the chimney slowly

Am

The wind it blew the slates off your prayers float through the foxglove grip the iron
bed post quickly

Am

We watched them carry the coffin from the house down to the river they recited
come away
from the well

Am

At the gathering the whole room it fell silent it heckled and grew violent I stood at your back
deep breath
haystack
