Verse

```
D           G           D
I saw her there fade from afar
D           G
Her hair gray charcoal
           D           A
Takes a drag from her tar.
G           A
I kissed her a smile,
           D           G
but her blood red shot eye
           G           A           C
Said the son never shines on closed doors
```

Verse

D           G           D
It s been eight long years since I saw
           D           G
The woman who s labored
           D           A
Since the day I was born.
           G           A
These wrinkles now face
           D           G
To that cold dark damp place,
           G           A           D
Where the son never shines on closed doors.

Chorus

           G           A           D
She said the son never shines on closed doors
G           A           D           A
I open to find only hurricanes blow.
G           A           D           G
Takes me away, to the green fields of May,

G                  A                  D
Because the son never shines on closed doors.

Verse

D                          G                  D
Death comes like a thief in the night
      D                          G
To steal while you sleep,
          D                  A
the soul s flickering light.
      G                          A
Well maybe it s then,
          D                  G
she said I ll see you again,
          G                  A                  D
Because the son never shines on closed doors.

Chorus

G                  A                  D
She said the son never shines on closed doors
      G          A                  D          A
I open to find only hurricanes blow.
G          A                  D                  G
Take me away, to the green fields of May,
          G                  A                  D
Because the son never shines on closed doors.

[Bridge]

Outro

A                  G                  D
And we all go the same way home,
          A                  G                  D
yeah we all go the same way home.

until the end
