

Amity Gardens
Fountains of Wayne

I saw a lack of this song anywhere, so I decided it was about time someone posted a decent rendition of this little croon. Here s my interpretation, enjoy!

VERSE 1:

Dm                      Bb
angel broke her wing
F                      Bb
oh you poor thing
         Gm              Dm              F              C
the hum of the motor gave way to the tick tick Dm                      Bb                      F                      Bb
ticking of the clock and the rattle of springs
         Gm                      C
the buick s in the drive
         Gm                      C7
its good to be alive

CHORUS:

F              C                      Gm              C
and if you knew now, what you knew then Bb                      F                      Bb                      C
you wouldn t wanna go home, wouldn t wanna go F              C                      Gm              C
if you knew now, what you knew then Bb                      F                      Bb              C              F
you wouldn t wanna go to amity gardens again

VERSE 2:

it isn t very much
but for now its home
a room in the shadow of a funny lookin man on the phone to the bank about a default loan
I thank you very much ta ta we ll keep in touch

CHORUS:

BRIDGE:

C
where you, came from

and act like you tried Gm                                      Dm
cause some things are better kept F

deep down inside

Gm

Dm

F

but you re not driving you re along for the ride

Gm

C

just checking out the scene

Gm

C7

and taking in the green
