Guiding light
Foy Vance
Capo at 4th Fret

A beautiful melodic song by Foy Vance. Not the proper chord names, I know, but, if like me you love this song and want to get playing it then follow my guide and feel free to improve it and let me know. My first attempt derived from listening to the song (so go easy on me!

The D1 chord can also be played by sliding the D cord up two frets.

 D D1 D
Well the road is wide, D A A1 A
and waters run of either side,
 A E E1 E
and my shadow went with fading light, E A A2
stretching out towards the night.

 D D1 D
Cause the Sun is low, D A A1 A
and I yet have still so far to go,
 A E E1 E
my lonely heart is beating slow,
 E A A2
tired of the wonder,

 D D1 D
there s a sign ahead,
 D A A1 A
but I think it s the same one again,
 A E E1 E
and I m thinking bout my only friend,
 E A A2
and so I find my way home.

D D1 D A
When I need to get home
A A1 A E
you re my guiding light,

E E1 E A A2
you re my guiding light.

D D1 D A
When I need to get home,
A A1 A E
you re my guiding light,
E E1 E A
you re my guiding light.

D D1 D
Well the air is cold,
D A A1 A
and yonder lies my sleeping soul,
A E E1 E
by the branches broke like bones,
E A A2
this weakened tree no longer holds

D D1 D
but the night is still,
D A A1 A
and I have not yet lost my will,
A E E1 E
and so I will keep on moving till,
E A A2
till I find my way home.

D D1 D A
When I need to get home
A A1 A E
you re my guiding light,
E E1 E A A2
you re my guiding light.

D D1 D A
When I need to get home,
A A1 A E
you re my guiding light,
E E1 E A
you re my guiding light.
