(verse 2, same as before)

I used to like when you cried.
At least you d give me your time.
And I d be smiling inside because you needed me.

Cause I ve been pulling you along
To some place you don t wanna be.
And now I see that what I want,
It s just the last breath of a dream.

(chorus 2)

F                                C                        G
But I won t be your problem anymore.
F                                C                        G
I won t be your problem anymore.
F                                C                        G

I won t have the strength to leave.
F                C                Em                F
And you keep falling back on me.
F                                                                                                        G
And I ll just keep falling, I ll just keep falling.

(last chorus, single strum)

F                                C                        G
But I won t be your problem anymore.

I won t be your problem anymore.
