

Soft-Hearted Hana
George Harrison

This file is all my own work.

This song is from George Harrison.

Intro: Hm E G Hm G A7 D F#

Hm E
I ate it and at once my eyes could see you
G Hm
No sooner had I ooped it down
G A7 D F#
I felt so far off from the ground I stood on.

My legs they seemed to me like high-rise buildings
My head was high up in the sky
My skin the sun began to fry like bacon.

F3
And then somebody old appeared and asked had I come far . . .

Hm
And hadn t they just seen me up on Haleakala . . .

F#
I kept on body surfing to pretend I hadn t heard

Hm
There was someone there beside me, swimming like Richard III

E
And I m still smiling
Solo over verse

Seven naked native girls swam seven sacred pools . . .
Lone-ranger smoking doobies said you re breaking all the rules . . .
You d better get your clothes on or else there ll be a row . . .
If it wasn t for my sunstroke I would take you on right now . . .
And I m still smiling.

I fell in love with my Soft-Hearted Hana
She entered right in through my heart
And now although we re miles apart
I still feel her.

She lives beneath the crater in the meadow
She moves among the fruit and grain
You can meet her after heavy rain has fallen.

Solo over verse.
