Soft-Hearted Hana George Harrison

This file is all my own work.

This song is from George Harrison.

Intro: Hm E G Hm G A7 D F#

Hm E

I ate it and at once my eyes could see you

G Hm.

No sooner had I ooped it down

G A7 D F#

I felt so far off from the ground I stood on.

My legs they seemed to me like high-rise buildings

My head was high up in the sky

My skin the sun began to fry like bacon.

And then somebody old appeared and asked had I come far . . .

Hm

And hadn t they just seen me up on Haleakala . . .

F#

I kept on body surfing to pretend I hadn t heard

Hm

There was someone there beside me, swimming like Richard III

Е

And I m still smiling

Solo over verse

Seven naked native girls swam seven sacred pools . . .

Lone-ranger smoking doobies said you re breaking all the rules . . .

You d better get your clothes on or else there ll be a row . . .

If it wasn t for my sunstroke I would take you on right now . . .

And I m still smiling.

I fell in love with my Soft-Hearted Hana She entered right in through my heart And now although we re miles apart I still feel her.

She lives beneath the crater in the meadow She moves among the fruit and grain You can meet her after heavy rain has fallen.

Solo over verse.
