| F#m  | Em  |
| Since you've been gone there's a darkness, nowhere a light to be found             |     |
| F#m  | Em  |
| The clock on the wall's holding back the time, It's clear that I'm just going down |     |
| D  | F#m |
| You and I, were made for one another   |     |
| D  | Em  |
| And I believed that dream, for too long  |     |
| F#m  | Em  |
| All that you left was a letter, I can't get it out of my mind                      |     |
| F#m  | Em  |
| No more laughter, no more sun, alone at the scene of the crime                     |     |
| D  | F#m |
| Now here I am, searching for forgiveness, yeah                                     |     |
| D  | Em  |
| But nothing seems to matter anymore  |     |

Riff 1

There's no tomorrow, only fire in the rain

You say you're sorry, but only memories remain

You can't tell me there's a reason, why I should go through all this pain
D
And once again, once again
Em
I call your name

F#m Em
Love was the wrong destination, and I can't find healing touch
F#m Em
But I won't forsake, I won't give up, guess I still need you too much
D F#m
So here we are, strangers to each other
D Em
When once we held the whole world in our hands

There's no tomorrow, only fire in the rain

You say you're sorry, but only memories remain

You can't tell me there's a reason, why I should go through all this pain
D
And once again, once again
Em
I call your name

Base solo:

F#m Em F#m Em D Em F#m

B
You say in this life, no one's wrong, and nobody's right
C#m B
You say that you need to be free
C#m
And that's what is killing me

There's no tomorrow, only fire in the rain

You say you're sorry, but only memories remain

There's no tomorrow, am I the only one to blame

You can't tell me there's a reason, why I should go through all this pain
D Em
And once again, once again, I call your name
