          C9      D7
No matter where I want to be
    G
I ve just begun It s hard to know?
              Am                            C9        D7
I ve never been there beforeIt make me want to show you
                  G
That despite my mistakes and regrets My biggest wish
              Am                      C9        D7
Is to be on the right side But if today I stumble, please
                  G
Don t condemn me now

 C
Hey, I m still here
 G
Hey, I m the same
 Am7            D7
Hey, why all this?
                            G
If all we have to do Is wait for the day to end
                              C
And let the next day Bring us something better
                              G
To make this something better Something really special
          C    D7          G
And let go For all that remains

      C9        D7
No matter where I was today
    G
I ve just begun  Cause every start again
          Am                      C9      D7
It s a new life It make me wanna show you
                  G
That despite my mistakes and regrets
                              Am
My biggest wish Is to be always by your side
                      C        D7
But if today I m on the right track
                      G
Please, don t forget that

                                C
So normal and simple As these ones I wrote
