

Midnight Train
Gustavo Bertoni

D                    Bm                    F#m
Girl, you know I ve waited for this day
D/F                                    Em                                    Bm A
I was stuck on a puzzle, I drowned in the pouring rain
D                    Bm                    F#m
You reached out to me, you showed me the way
D/F                                    Em                                    Bm A
Your fears, like mine, they took the midnight train

( D        Bm        F#m        D/F        Em        Bm )

D                    Bm                    F#m
Now so much of me is in your hands
D/F                                    Em                                    Bm        A
And my burden s is yours to hold, as yours is mine

D/F
Call for me, my lover
                                  A4                    A
When your nights are gone astray

Bm                    D                    D/F
Every now and then we ll need a savior
Em                    D                    A
Every now and then we ll need a hand
Bm                    D                    D/F
When you feel your bedroom walls a crumbling
Em                    D                    A
Don t you dare to feel that you re alone, no

D        Bm        F#m        D/F        Em        Bm

D                    Bm                    F#m
You ve been there where light seems faraway
D/F                                    Em                                    Bm
Your shadow behind me but I couldn t see
D                    Bm                    F#m
Reaching out for something we don t know
D/F                                    Em                                    Bm A
Holding on to what we still don t have

D/F
Call for me, my lover
Bb7M
When your nights are gone astray

Bm                    D                    D/F
