

Gubba Lookalikes

Half Man Half Biscuit

(intro A D E (x9))

A D E
They come from underneath the stairs

A D E
Into my room but no-one cares

They re on the bus and on the train

They re knocking on my window pane.

Oh mother telephone the nurse

Can t you see it s getting worse

A D E
I close my eyes yet still it seems

A D E
Everybody in my dreams,

A D E A D E, A D E (x5)
Gubba look-A-likes Gubba look-A-likes.

I wake up screaming in the hall

A D E
I didn t mean to wake at all

A D E
I run and lock the bathroom door

Turn on the taps and out they pour.

A D E
Through all the villages and towns

A thousand sandy coloured clowns

A D E
I try and escape down private drives

A D E
And then I reach the Reader s Wives.

A D E A D E, (instr A D E (x9))
Gubba look-A-likes Gubba look-A-likes.

A D
In order to fling off this curse, I spend all day drinking in

Diverse taverns, with smarmy acrobats and balding senators.

But after a while they too adopt the likeness and begin to breed like

town pigs.

As a drunken lump I fall into a state of blissful unconsciousness

A D E
 But the moment is fleeting and I awake once more in despair
A D E A D E
 And in my final agonies believe myself lost.
 Gubba look-A-likes Gubba look-A-likes.
A D E
 In every film and every play, on every public right of way
A D E
 On every flag I see unfurled, on all the grounds in all the world
A D E
 The one-armed bandits in the bar, in the back of every car
A D E
 And even on my dying day they ll refuse to go away
A D E
 When I walk towards the light something somewhere won t be right
A D E
 And what was once my Uncle Keith says there ll never be relief
A D E
 And we ll go on and on and on and on and on.
 Gubba look-A-likes Gubba look-A-likes.
