An awesome song by an awesome ska-punk band from Boston.

Intro
(strum each of these lots of times obviously)

```
      D              G      A
e-/10---/10---/10---/10---/33---/55-|
B-/10---/10---/10---/10---/33---/55-|
G-----|
D-----|
A-----|
E-----|
```

```
      D              A
Well I ve been brave, and I have been there for my friends,
      G              A
and I ve been enslaved by stupid shit that should have surely meant my end.
      D              A
Prior convictions, while they will give me no reprieve,
      G              A
I still try not to contradict things I ve believed.
```

```
      E              G
And sometimes when I wake, the morning light,
      D
shows me the things that I ve done right,
      A
tells me I ll make it through the day,
(tells me I ll make it through the night).
```

```
      D              A              G
So if my dad could see me now would he be proud,
      D              A              G
that I ve become the man I am, that I don t do just what s allowed,
      D              A              G
that I mean every word I say to every face that s in this crowd?
      D              A
so if you re listening, I ll play it loud.
```

[repeat intro]

D
A
 And I ve lashed out, just like an animal in pain,
G
A
 and I ve looked everywhere but me to point the blame, D
A
 and I ve been selfish, and motivated by my fears, G
A
 and so impossible to deal with through the years.

E
G
 And sometimes when I hear that sad old song,
D
 it brings me right back to my wrongs,
A
 it brings me right back to despair,
 (right back to fuck it, I don t care).
E
G
 But sometimes when I wake, the morning light,
D
 shows me the things that I ve done right,
A
 tells me I ll make it through the day,
 (tells me I ll make it through the night).

D
A
G
 So if my dad could see me now would he be proud,
D
A
G
 that I ve become the man I am, that I don t do just what s allowed, D
A
G
 that I mean every word I say to every face that s in this crowd?
A
 so if you re listening, I ll play it loud.

B
A
 So if my dad could see me now would he be proud,
A
 that I ve become the man I am, that I don t do just what s allowed?
A
 So just in case there is a heaven, and in case you re looking down,
B
 in case you re listening, I ll play it loud.
B
 In case you re listening, old man, I ll play it loud, yeah, I ll play it loud.

And the Outro is just the intro, but everything is played two frets higher to match they key change.
