Getting Old
hellogoodbye

The intro is played on ukelele but this way sounds decent on guitar. And I tried to put in the count for the strumming pattern; I hope it s right but I haven t done that in years so please correct me if it s not. Also, the second half of the verses has a distinct rhythm so listen to the song for it. Enjoy!

Intro:

Verse:
```
A                   F#m           D             A
When we were younger time was under careful lock and key.
A           F#m             D             A
Now it s open, tipped and pourin  out all over me.
   F#m        C#m           Bm                        F#m          C#m
      Bm
Oh what a shame! that our days, you exclaimed, I thought you had meant they were long.
      F#m           C#m         Bm       F#m       C#m    A
Not  till the night when I turned 25, I saw that I had it all wrong.

(Between the two verses you can play half the intro or just keep playing an A chord)

Verse:
```
A             F#m           D           A
I was gettin  tired of lettin  all my hours pass.
A               F#m             D               A
Hopin  someday soon or some way everything would last.
   F#m        C#m           Bm                    F#m        C#m         Bm
Oh What a shame! When I look at your frame, I know someday it will be dust.
    F#m           C#m              Bm                    F#m            C#m
    A
Not that I thought it s that close,  cause it s not, but I guess it s just creepin  up.

(Between the verse and chorus you can play the full intro or A chords)

Chorus:
A                       D   A                             E

Oh and it s not that bad, it s all this time we ve had.
C#m   D   A   E
Things that could be, became history. We ll never know instead.
A   D   A   E
Oh we re not too far gone. It hasn t been that long.
C#m   D
Oh and our tea cup is getting filled up.
A   E   A(x4)
So we ll never have to dread getting old.
