

Just
Henry Ate

Just - Henry Ate
Courtesy of Joris Van Gaal
J.A.P.Gaal@rf.rabobank.nl

This song is played with a capo at the third fret. The chords are written as if they are played without capo. Note that in the chorus G and the D notes are continuously played on the high E and B strings, except the Am chord.

This should result in several sustained chords, but it's easier to let your pink and ring finger rest on notes while playing the chords. Listen carefully to the chorus to get an idea of what I'm talking about.

The D/F# is the only 'strange' chord and is actually nothing else but a Dchord with a F# in the bass. You play this note by using your thumb or with your index (but this requires a totally new fingering of the D-chord).

D/F# 200232

G D/F#
Lately I've been thinking what if we were wrong
Em C G
And the world never meant you and I to belong
D/F#
We'd have wasted so much time
Em C G
Building castles in the sky only to watch them all fall down

Would it be all of our dreams so well suited to you
And I could be half acquired
Would it be worthwhile?

[Chorus]

G D/F#
If I could just understand this
Em C G
I might then try to forgiveness, know that I will
D/F#
Each time I feel
Em C G
You'll be by, you'll be by, you'll be by my side in the end
D

We'll still be friends

Em C

Ain't it shocking how my sympathetic world amends

G D Em C

And in time you'll realise I'm not what I seem inside

Am C D

I'll go wild, I'll go wild, I'll go wild

Lately I've been thinking what if you were wrong

And all the things you've taken were never meant to be gone

You'd have given a gift from above

So freely having given a gift from above

And would it be all of your dreams

So better suited to someone like me

I'd watch you achieve

Wouldn't that make me unhappy on the level thinking back

[Chorus]