

Marleys Chains
Honey Ryder

A great new song by Honey Ryder,

D
Ooh, troubled mind,
                  G                  D
Won t you lay down your worries,
D
Leave, this behind,
G                  D
No one wins in sorry.

G
Somehow I m addicted,
  D
To the little pieces I can find,
D
But I don t remember,
G
Maybe I just missed it,
  D
Maybe what was there was never mine,
D
But I ll try to fix it.

D          A                  G                  D
I won t fall with the weight of Marley s chains,
D          A                  G                  D
Conscience calls and the heartache still remains,
          D                  A                  G                  D
But I know I ll find a resoulution, memories will fade,
          G                  A                  D
And I ll find a way to break from Marley s chains,
          G                  A                  D
Yeah I ll find a way to break from Marley s chains.

D
Ooh, heavy minds,
                  G                  D
Won t you lay down your sorrow,
D
Hope, will arrive,
G                  D
Give me life to follow.

G
I m searching for forgiveness,
  D

A way to live my life with every way,

D

But I know it's out there,

G

How do I get through this?

D

Show me the way cause I haven't found it yet,

D

And I know it's out there.

D            A                    G                                    D

I won't fall with the weight of Marley's chains,

D                    A                    G                                    D

Conscience calls and the ghost inside remains,

D                                    A                    G                                    D

But I know I'll find a resolution, memories will fade,

G                                    A                                    D

And I'll find a way to break from Marley's chains,

Bm

Ooh to break from Marley's chains,

G

Ooh the weight of Marley,

Bm

Ooh the weight of Marley's chains.

Bm    A    D    A

(Aah, ah ah, aah)

D

Ooh, troubled mind,

G                                    D

Won't you lay down your worries (won't you lay them down),

D

Leave, this behind,

G                                    D

No one wins in sorry (sorry).

D            A                    G                                    D

I won't fall with the weight of Marley's chains (no I won't),

D                    A                    G                                    D

Conscience calls that's the price I have to pay,

D                                    A                    G                                    D

But I know I'll find a resolution, memories will fade (memories will fade),

G                                    A                                    D

And I'll find a way to break from Marley's chains,

D                                    A                    G                                    D

But I know I'll find a resolution, memories will fade

G                                    A                                    D

And I'll find a way to break from Marley's chains,

G                                    A                                    D

Yeah I'll find a way to break from Marley's chains.