Only You
Hurts

```
        Bm                      G                    A          D
When the night is young but it makes you feel much older
        Bm          G            D         A
And you comatose each waking hour of life
          Bm              G               A        D
When the days go by but the darkness lingers longer
      Bm              G            D        A
And before you know it life is one long night

          Bm                 G             D          A
But when I close my eyes, I see you stand before me
            Bm                 G           A      D
And if you take my hand, I ll leave it all behind

      Bm       G           D         A
Because only you can set me free
    Bm      G               A         D
So hold me close just like the first time

  Bm             G              A      D
Flashing lights illuminate your halo
        Bm              G            D           A
And my pounding heartbeat thunders like a drum
        Bm              G          A        D
When we used to dance we ve never cast a shadow
            Bm            G              D          A
Cause there was only you and me when we were young

        Bm              G              D          A
And in a sea of scars the first cut is the deepest
          Bm              G            A       D
No matter where you are, I ll always think of you

      Bm     G           D         A
Because only you can set me free
    Bm      G               A         D
So hold me close just like the first time
      Bm     G           D         A
And show me how it used to be
        Bm       G           A        D
Because only you can set me free

      Bm     G           D          A
Because only you can set me free
    Bm      G               A         D
So hold me close just like the first time
```

```
    Bm        G              D          A
And show me how it used to be
      Bm        G            A          D
Because only you can set me free
```
