

The Coyote And The Cowboy

Ian Tyson

[Intro]

D

[Verse]

D

G

Coyote s a survivor, I reckon he s got to be.

D

G

He lives in the snow at 40 below or Malibu by the sea.

D

G

An I m just an old cow puncher, I love to listen to his tune.

D

G

Cause I get high on a bottle of rye an Coyote gets drunk on the moon.
(try er gang)

D

G

Cause I get high on a bottle of rye an Coyote gets drunk on the moon.
(fantastic. try the whole verse all together now)

[Verse]

D

G

Coyote s a survivor, I reckon he s got to be.

D

G

He lives in the snow at 40 below or Malibu by the sea.

D

G

An I m just an old cow puncher, I love to listen to his tune.

D

G

Cause I get high on a bottle of rye an Coyote gets drunk on the moon.
(try er gang)

D

G

Cause I get high on a bottle of rye an Coyote gets drunk on the moon.
(fantastic. try the whole verse all together now)

[Verse]

D

G

Well the cowboy is a conundrum, a contradiction in this age,

D

G

Well he says he s doin fine on the poverty line with a workin cowboy s wage.

D

G

The whiskey bottle cost 13 bucks, the big prairie moon is free.

D

G

So who is the dumber son of a bitch? The little coyote or me?

D

G

Yeh, who is the dumber son of a bitch? The little coyote or me? (take it)

[Solo]

[Verse]

D

G

So with thoughts of re-incarnation well I drifted off to dream.

D

G

I made it for life with a coyote wife and a bushy-tailed coyote queen.

D

G

Way down in the valley, at the old long noose saloon,

D

G

The cowboy got high on a bottle of rye, we got drunk on the moon.

D

G

The cowboy got high on a bottle of rye, we got drunk on the moon.

D

G

Everybody Take it home

D

G

Coyote s a survivor, I reckon he s got to be.

D

G

He lives in the snow at 40 below or Malibu by the sea.

D

G

An I m just an old cow puncher, I love to listen to his tune.

D

G

Cause I get high on a bottle of rye an Coyote gets drunk on the moon.

(try er gang)

D

G

Cause I get high on a bottle of rye an Coyote gets drunk on the moon.

(fantastic. try the whole verse all together now)