

Hear The Noise That Moves So Soft And Low
James Vincent McMorrow

first upload, but i love this song so much, underrated :)

C      Am      G      F      G      C
hear, hear the noise that moves so soft and slow
Am      G      F      G      Am
thats the sound of freshly fallen snow
G      F      C      G
your love is gold, your love is gold
C      Am      G      F      G      C
seems, seems as though weâ€™ll be stuck out here for days
Am      G      F      G      Am
to bang upon these drums that we have made G      F
you never know, you never know
Am      F
my one, my only one
Am      F
lies sleeping in the sun
Am      F
gave chase and so we run
G      F/Am
nothing breaks your stride like whats become C      Am F      C      Am F
ohhhhh
C      Am      G      F      G      C
stack, stack the frozen wood next to the shed
Am      G      F      G      Am
pile it up so high then paint it red,
G      F      C      G
confuse the dogs, confuse the dogs
C      Am      G      F      G      C
and time, time we lost is resting on the stairs
Am      G      F      G      Am
the window out reveals the cooler air
G      F
and so we go, and so we go
Am      F
my one, my only one,
Am      F
lied twice to keep me on
Am      F
gave chase and so we sung
G      F/Am
everything that ends has still begun
G      Am
from the inside of my mouth

G F
and the slow migration south

G Am
itâ€™s not to be denied

G C
itâ€™s not to be denied

ohhhhh
