Well so what if a two pump chump can t last.
But I made it to three, and I foreclose a five minute, fantasy.
I ll surely fight making love on economy/on account of me (not sure).

No jumping, conclusions,
I don t think there s no solution,
Let s get, backwards,
And forget our restless destination.
                                                          D
Let s live in this moment just this time, could we?
Just take one moment of our time m-m-m-maybe.
Let s forget we running out of time.
                                                 Bm
                                                                Am
I m off like an airplane,
                                                 Bm
I m catching my second wind again.
                                       Bm
I m using my left brain
And I m righting all my wrongs.
                                                C
I m yearning to turn you on.
I ve been working on getting you off, so get on board.
Well how can I guess by the subject of the best predicate that s left unsaid when the matter is too delicate.
My loneliness is evident.
