

Teenager

Young, dumb and trying to fall in love with a six-pack of Coke getting warm in a cluttered trunk

Burnt out on melodrama and teenage bitterness that I need to let go of Sucking summer off each others fingers

Windows down all showing the world we don t care

Christine doesn t seem to mind that all of my songs are about dying and suicide

Sometimes I don t think I mind when she yells at my friends, I wanna yell at my friends sometimes

Sticking flowers in each others hair
All making out, all showing the world we don t care

And I know that every moment s fleeting

I know I have too many feelings

But when the seasons change
(When I m turning grey)

And waves turn to rain
(And everything s a pain)

I ll laugh cause I know I don t care

I ll laugh cause I know I don t care

I ll laugh cause I know I don t care don t care don t care don t care

Sometimes the only songs I write are about dying young and dying and suicide
