I Remember
Joel Alme

```
          E                 A          C#m              A
When the night is tumbling on and the moon is shining strong
             A              B
I’ll think of you, are you still alone in the world?
             E             A                  C#m            A
And when the sun is breaking through and when the day is coming, too
             A                    B
I’ll think of you, are you still alone in the world?

            E             A              E              A
Do you remember back when we were just some happy kids then
      A                 B                  E
But life was pushing a little bit harder on you

            E             A
Our life is short, no time to waste
        C#m                 A
I am your friend, don’t hesitate
                A
When the lights go out
                  B           B
There’re not only stars left in the sky
              E                   A
I know it’s hard, but you got to leave
          C#m                 A
That lonely heart won’t set you free
                  A           B              B
When the moon is high I hope to see you there..  That someday..

            E             A              E              A
Do you remember back when we were just some happy kids then
      A                 B                  E
But life was pushing a little bit harder on you
              E         A         E                     A
And I remember back when you said I won’t make it through this
      A                 B
I should have been there for you
        B             E
But I was only..   A kid then..
