

Errands

Joey Cape

This is pretty close, probably not 100% though. Wicked song, thanks to the dude playing on youtube, it helped. Any corrections feel free to email me.

Verse 1:

F#m A
that's it let's move to new york city

F#m A
and we won't even say good bye

D Bm A F#m
we'll find a place where we can start a fight

D E Fm
and feel good to be alive

Verse 2:

F#m A
and so we'll drive across the country

F#m A
on this endless holiday

D Bm A F#m
you take the short cut and i'll watch life pass

D E G#
i can't remember who drove last

Chorus:

A E
errands, errands

F#m A D Dm
why don't you think they'd understand

A E
errands, errands

F#m A E
why don't you think for that next trick

D E D

it's gonna be the last mistake you make

E F F#m
and it's going to devastate all of them

Interlude:

F#m A (barre)

F#m A (barre)

(h/p)

D Bm A E

D E F

Verse 3:

we're on our way to run more errands
travelers without a plan
and i've been awake for way to long
i can't remember who i am

Chorus:

errands, errands
why don't you think they'd understand
errands, errands
why don't you think for the next trick
it's going to be the your legacy
and it's going to devastate all of them
