They charge for the water
           E7
Control the soil
They force me into boundaries
And it feels like there is nothing I can do about it
                                   Dmaj7/E
                              Α

                     E7
They hide inside the skyline
There never was a fine line
The balance always slanted
