Why in the world are you blocking the doorway

I wanna come inside and sing happy birthday

Say hi to your momma, eat a piece of cake

And tell your little brother dirty jokes

I wanna like to everybody bout the star I am Big city life that Im livin

All of the money that theyre trying to give me

Just to sign a couple compact discs

Hey hey well aint it your birthday, then why arent you smiling?

I just drove 250 miles in the middle of the night, on an empty tank

Dodging deer along the way

On to central Virginia, moonlight byway

Brought to you by a small-town always thought I could

Come home to, oh but I guess I was wrong

Is it one of those times when you think I should back down
Just let it go instead of slamming my foot down
Bow my head at the feet of the Queen, instead of taking out a prison guard
Keeping inside all the things that Im feeling
Never leading anybody into believing, my attitude and I are making a deal
And Im trying to better myself

Hey hey well aint it your birthday, then why arent you smiling?
I just drove 250 miles in the middle of the night, on an empty tank
Dodging deer along the way
On to central Virginia, moonlight byway
Brought to you by a small-town always thought I could
Come home to, oh but I guess I was wrong
