Fool
Lifehouse

C#                          A           B
Since my own arrogance has knocked my off my feet again
C#                          A           B
When you know I m crawling to you as fast as I can
C#                          A           B
First teach me to walk and then I ll learn to dance for you
C#                          A           B
Like an honest clumsy clown tripping along the way

A#m                     F#
 cause I am reaching for you, but my arms aren t long enough
A#m                   F#
And I am running to you, If I go a little faster
A#m                   F#
And I am crying to you, But I can t hear my own voice
A#m                    F#        F#m
And I am waiting for you, And trying not to fall asleep now

C#
and I am clumsily dancing away this fear
A#m
I am stumbling closer to you and I am
D#m
Tumbling over my pride
F#          G#        C#
I will be a fool for you

C#                              A           B
What are you thinking as you look down on me
C#                              A           B
Are you frustrated with my inconsistency
C#                          A           B
Or intrigued that I can find the will to get back on board
C#                          A           B
Maybe all of this is simply amusing

A#m                         F#
 cause I am reaching for you, But my arms aren t long enough
A#m                     F#
And I am running to you, If I go a little faster
A#m                   F#
And I am crying to you but, I can t hear my own voice
A#m                    F#      F#m
And I am waiting for you, And trying not to fall asleep
