These things can be captured by your camera
      G                C
if this all should ever fade away.
      Am                D                G
I d still remember the color of your favorite shirt and being
      C                G                C      ( G      C )
young, And afraid, mmmm
```

```
      G                C
Dare I look down at my hands and think,
      G                C
in a hundred years they ll be burnt or in the ground.
      Am                D                G      C      G      C
I d still use these hands to keep you around, mmmmm oohhh
```

```
      G                C
These things can be captured by your camera
      G                C
if this all should ever run its course.
      Am                D                G                C
Then I d be forced to remember, every laugh that made me hurt.
```

```
      G                C
Don t you dare question how long this will last,
      G                C
or what friends will ask if I love you...
      Am                D                G      C
Well, for now I think that I surely do.
