The Other Guy â€” Little River Band

Someone saw my Tab for Night Owls by LRB and asked if I knew where The Other Guy could be found. I looked around but again couldnâ€™t find it, so, unaccustomed as I am, Iâ€™ve had a bash at interpreting it - especially in view of the title - thought I had to have a go.
Hope it seems vaguely close and helps you out! Happy to have any constructive feedback!

F	Fc(cut)	D5	Bb	C (*)	C (*alternative)	G
e----1-----X-----X-----1-----3-----0-----3
B----1-----X-----X-----3-----5-----1-----0
G----2-----2-----2-----3-----5-----0-----0
D----3-----3-----0-----3-----5-----2-----0
A----3-----3-----0-----1-----3-----3-----2
E----1-----X-----X-----1-----3-----X-----3

To me, the beginning, that wonderful 2 part driving beat sounds like itâ€™s dominated by the bass guitar in the actual version, and so I feel this 3 finger plucked Fc D5 is the best interpretation from an acoustic/rhythm guitar. If youâ€™re an advanced player, play this then make the tricky change to Bbâ€¦....

For mere mortals â€” just play F instead of Fc D5.

(PS â€” there is no such chord as Fc â€” Iâ€™ve just made that one up. â€” for the purists, it is still technically an F as it has the 1,3 and 5 in it â€” so to distinguish it from the full 6 string strum F, Iâ€™ve called it Fc.)

 Or try one of the following:

Put a Capo on Fret 1 and substitute:

E shape for F

A shape for Bb

B shape for C (ie barred on the actual 3rd fret A shape)

F# shape for G (ie barred on the 3rd fret E shape)

or easier still, put a capo on Fret 3 and substitute:
D shape for F
G shape for Bb
A shape for C (ie barred on the actual 3rd fret A shape)
E shape for G (ie barred on the 3rd fret E shape)
