

Bitter-Endless

Mark Davis

There is an odd chord progression, assuming that it is in the key of Bm like it seems to be. Maybe some suspended Bm or D chords thrown in there too.

No capo.

Bm A D A Bm

i. fVII iii fVII i

Bm

In the bitter endless kind of blue

A

where just a little spark will do

D

i lie awake and i think of you

A

Bm

sweetness that we ve tasted

Bm

this ole room with no great view

A

testament to see me through

D

i drift away on dreams of you

A

Bm

the tenderness that we wasted

Chorus:

G

there s nothing down here on god s green earth

D

Bm

like the touch of a woman that I love so much

nothing between the heavens and depths of hell

D

Bm

got a thing on the woman that i love so well

In the bitter endless kind of space that s half a dozen shades of grey

i recall the colours of your face the finer things about you this ole cracked and crooked place

a good book to save my grace

i ponder long on glory days

i ponder life without you
