There is someone in his past that he hasn t gotten over yet
Each day s like the last, he just misses what he can t forget

It s just an empty space where something used to be
Now he guards the gate, but he s lost the key
So no one enters, but no one leaves
There s a keeper for every flame

Thought my heart had broken, but it was just a little bruised
I thought love had spoken, I guess I was just confused

Sometimes we were a fire burning out of control
Sometimes we were nothing but a candle glow
But it never died, baby, how I know
There s a keeper for every flame
