I ve been turning it over and over again

Like a stone I m waiting to wish on

I ve been holding my breath, just wondering when

You ll make some sort of decision

To let me in or to let me go

I always lose if I never know where I fit in

Baby, you win again

Last night I dreamed we were standing here

On the corner of Love and Heartache

You jumped into your car, you found first gear

And baby, I felt the earth shake

And I woke up trembling with my heart in my throat

Cause there s never a look, a word, or a note at the bitter end

Baby, you win again

I can t be right if I m always wrong

I can t stand up if I m always kneeling

At your altar or at your throne

You could show just a little feeling for who I am

Baby, you win again
