Happy Anniversary Baby, it's been a year now since you moved away,
A A E E7
Even though I asked, you to go, I miss you every day.
A A D A
I miss you in the evenings, alone in the bed where I lie,
A A E A
I miss you in the morning, before I open my eyes.

I went and sold everything I could babe, then I gave away what I didn't sell
I moved south to Nashville, I might like it there, but I can't tell.
I've been hanging in Austin eating chili's and good barbecue,
Writing songs about losing and heartache, hey babe, I've been writing about you.

D A D E
A year, that ain't nothin', when you lose someone you love,
D A E A
A year is a drop in a bucket, when you lose someone you love.

I been traveling hard since September, won't get back to Nashville till June,
I've played my songs all over the world, but I can't find a home without you.
I press on like a mad rushing river, I press on with the will to survive,
Part of me lives for the wind in my face, while the other parts barely alive

A year, that ain't nothin', when you lose someone you love,
D A E A
A year is a drop in a bucket, when you lose someone you love.

So Happy Anniversary baby, may fortune and fate be your friends,
Wherever you go, I want you to know, I don't think my love ever ends.
I carry it down the highway, it's part of my body and soul,
And one day it'll be the part of me, that pulls me up out of this hole

D A D E
A year, that ain't nothin', when you lose someone you love,
D A E A

A year is a drop in a bucket, when you lose someone you love.
