

Sorry Signs On Cash Machines
Mason Jennings

This is, much like the majority of Mason's songs, such a beautiful tune, and it's really

I've tried to tab it directly as I hear it in standard tuning, so the key is a bit

- I imagine he plays it with a different tuning scheme - but you could play it in any and it would be sweet. Sometimes I play it in C, with the main chord progression being - C, G, F; a little easier around some jam sessions.

(Verse)

Bb

Oh, my heart is a thoroughbred, I can't sleep in my bed

Gm F D#

Everything is burning up inside me

Bb

I need something I can feel, Cigarettes and a driving wheel and

Gm F D#

Oh, my god, when you cross your legs beside me

(Chorus)

Bb Gm F D#

I know true love don't love like anybody else

Bb Gm F D#

I know your heart don't beat like anybody else

{{{All the verses and chorus are the same}}}

(Bridge)

Bb Cm Bb Cm

And all these burning battlefields are now behind us

Bb Cm Bb Cm

Life has brought us here together to remind us

Bb Cm Bb F

That love will rise above it all and just keep growing

Bb Cm Bb F

Life keeps flowing, and every moment starts right here with us

The little solo goes between 3, 6, 8, 11, and 10 on the B string. Find the beauty in simplicity.

{{{One more chorus}}}

Enjoy. If you can get someone to play those chords on the piano, you are dialed. The chords he plays are very straight forward and it sounds amazing together.
