Verse 1:

	Em
February 5th,	Friday morning,	purple dawn
C		G5	D/F#
Broke a yawn,	as a I stepped	through the fog,	like I stepped to a song
Em		C
A moment like	a poem,	you wish you	could hold it

I shut my eyes	like it s	frozen,	it s gone when I open

It slipped passed the clouds right there where it lingered

Em

C

Like your band and a girl could slip through your fingers

G5

D/F#

My feet hit the ground like a beat for the lonely

Em

On a path beaten down by the crowds in the morning

G5

If only I could touch past the phony

Em

If only they were there now to hold me

G5

As the questions keep droning

D/F#

*Note: Use some palm muting techniques between each chord strike for it to sound like the album version. For the live version, you can play the strings open in between chords.

You re the only one who stuck it out last night

The only other one who caught the other line

Verse 2 (Same As Verse 1)

It s my last year here
My first class moved to portable a
Under construction since summer
And it s cold today
I can see my breath, and what s left of the west parking lot
And all the spaces that we fought
And it all seems forgotten, left in the bottom
In past piles of rubble, in puddles of rain water
That hurt last night when I left like that
When I won t come back
Speaking my peace to the past
I can t help but wonder, who is this wind at my back
A whisper to walk on, come on from all that

Pre-Chorus 2 (Same As Pre-Chorus 1)

You re the only one who stuck it out this time
The only other one who caught the other line
You re the only one when this world collides
The one that I can t deny

C Dadd2/4

Now that you found me in the spring
