Song: Terminal Romance
Band: Matt Mays & El Torpedo
Album: Terminal Romance
Tabbed by: C MacDonnell

Listen to the song for the strumming patterns, and where the song picks up and slows down.

(*Piano first verse but if you wanna play it on guitar itâ€™s the same chords as the second verse)

Broke the winterâ€™s back
And split for the Sun
Shot through the night from a frozen gun
With my eyes to the skies
And one foot to the ground
I really gottaâ€™ go â€|Away

C

Itâ€™s a rough nâ€™ tumble come down at the break of day
Sitting here staring out across the bay

With that sunrise in your eyes
Thereâ€™s never really too much to say

F C

But I really gottaâ€™ go. â€|Away

Am

Cause heartbreaks are uncurable
And Iâ€™m up all night

F

Stone-faced in New York City

Trying to set things right
--

She talks with her hands and sheâ€™s saying goodbye

Nobodyâ€™s gonnaâ€™ tell me why

F

They just say time, time heals all

But I donâ€™t believe them

Cause heartbreaks are uncurable
And Iâ€™m up all night

F
Stone-faced in New York City
C G C(let it ring)
Trying to set things right â€|â€|allnight

(*Piano verse, if you want to play same verse chords as above)
Now time rolls on religiously, swift and sly
Bullet train full of souls riding through the night
Everyone thinks they can slow it down
I used to be like that before I knew you

There ainâ€™t nothing as dead as a dead romance
Nothing more alive than the city tonight
Storefront windows reflecting me

Where my steel cut heart can feel the electricity humm
Am
Look at me now, whose gonnaâ€™ take me there

From this lighting and the thunder and you, the eighth wonder
--
(*Piano bridge, just C if you feel like playing on guitar)

She talks with her hands and sheâ€™s saying goodbye
Nobodyâ€™s gonnaâ€™ tell me why

F
They just say time, time heals all
But I donâ€™t, I donâ€™t, I donâ€™t believe them

Am
Cause heartbreaks are uncurable and Iâ€™m up all night

Stone-faced in New York City
