D#                    B                    C#                    D#                    C# D#
It?s ***** sang to me, in dreams again
                                 B                    C#                    D#                    C# D#
That voice wich calls to me, and speaks my name

                         B                    C#                    D#
And do I dream again, for now I found
   B                    D#                    B
The phantom of the opera is there, inside my mind

G#                    C#                    F#                    G#                    F# G#
Sing once again with me, our strengh o yeah
C#                    F#                    G#
My power over you, goes over yeah

C#                    F#                    G#
And all you turned to me, so glass behind
   E                    G#                    E
The phantom of the opera is there, inside your mind

F                    C#                    D#                    F
Those who have seen your face, jump back in fear
                                 C# D#                    F
I am the ask you, it neather here
C#                    D#                    F
Your spirit and your voice, won?t say goodbye
   C#                    F
The phantom of the opera is there, inside your mind
