My Past Is Present

My Past is Present

F#                        C#
The girl I love so much just walked in the door
   B      C#                        F#      C#
My past is present but she s not mine anymore
                                   C#
Did she stop by to hurt me or does she even know I m here
   B      C#                            F#
My past is present, could it be that she still cares

       B                             F#            F#7
For without her there s no future, she s close yet far away
     B                            F#          C#
I keep hoping that my tomorrows will catch up with yesterday

For time has stopped my world has stopped since she went away
My past is present, I just hope she s back to stay
