My Interpretation MIKA

Edited the lyrics to the correct version from hannah.hearts92 version!

G Cadd9 Em7 F

G D

You talk about life you talk about death and everything in between

D

 $\ensuremath{\mathtt{C}}$  D Like its nothing....and the words are easy

You talk about me and talk about you and everything I do

C D

Like Its Something....that needs repeating

G A C

I Don t need an alibi or for you to realize

D

G

G

the things we left unsaid, are only taken space up in our heads

G A

Make it my fault, win the game point the finger, place the blame

it does me up and down, it doesn t matter now

G C D

Coz I don t care if I ever talk to you again

Em A C D G

this is not about emotion, i, need a reason not to care

C D G

what you say or what happened in the end

Em A CD G

this is my interpretation and you don t... don t exist

G Cadd9 Em7 F

G D

The first two weeks turn into ten I hold my breath and wonder

```
C
when it ll happen...does it really matter
                                     D
   If half of what you said is true and half of what I didn t do
С
    could be different...would it make it better
G
                                      Α
    If we forget the things we know would we have somewhere to go the only way is down, i can see that now
                G C
Coz I don t care if I ever talk to you again
         Em
                                                                 G
this is not about emotion, i, need a reason not to care
                                                    G
what you say or what happened in the end
                                             C D
                                                               G
this is my interpretation and you don t... don t exist
D C D
Em
Its really not such a sacrifice...
                             C D
                                                     G
                   if I ever talk to you again
                                                                 G Εm
                                C
this is not about emotion, i, need a reason not to care
              C
                                                    G
what you say or what happened in the end
                                             C D
                                                               G
this is my interpretation and you don t... don t exist
G, C, D, G, G/F#, Em, A, C, D
 It don t have to make no sense to you at all
       Em
this is my interpretation, yeah yeah yeah.
```
