D                    A                    G
O Love, that wilt not let me go,
D                    A                    G
I rest my weary soul in Thee;
D                    A                    Bm                    G
I give Thee back the life I owe,
G                    D                    A
That in Thine ocean depths its flow
G                    A                    Bm
May richer, fuller be.
                  G                    A                    D
May richer, fuller be.

D                    A                    G
O Light, that followest all my way,
D                    A                    G
I yield my flickering torch to Thee;
D                    A                    Bm                    G
My heart restores its borrowed ray,
G                    D                    A
That in Thy sunshineâ€™s blaze its day
G                    A                    Bm
May brighter, fairer be.
                  G                    A                    D
May brighter, fairer be.

D                    A                    G
O Joy, that seekest me through pain,
D                    A                    G
I cannot close my heart to Thee;
D                    A                    Bm                    G
I trace the rainbow through the rain,
G                    D                    A
And feel the promise is not vain
G .                    A                    Bm
That morn shall tearless be.
                  G                    A                    D
That morn shall tearless be.

D                    A                    G
O Cross, that liftest up my head,
D                    A                    G
I dare not ask to fly from Thee;
D                    A                    Bm                    G
I lay in dust lifeâ€™s glory dead,
G                    D                    A
And from the ground there blossoms red

G            A            Bm
Life that shall endless be.

G            A            D
Life that shall endless be.
