Royal Jelly - Dewey Cox, Written by Dan Bern

Standard E tuning

Capo on 7th

Intro: G C G C Em D G

Mailboxes drip like lampposts in the twisted birth canal of the coliseum
Rim job fairy teapots mask the temper tantrum

O say can you see em
Stuffed cabbage is the darling of the Laundromat

N the sorority mascot sat with the lumberjack
Pressing passing stinging half synthetic fabrication of his-- Time
The mouse with the overbite explained how the rabbits were ensnared

N the skinny scanty sylph trashed the apothecary diplomat
Inside the three-eyed monkey within inches of his toaster oven life

In my mind

I m half blind

My inner ref

Is mostly deaf

I m smell impaired

If you cared

My sense of taste is wasted on the phosphorescent orange peels of San Francisco axe-encrusted frenzy

G

So let me touch you

D

Let me touch you

Em

Let me touch you

Let me touch you

Intro again...

Repeat same chords for these lyrics:

Coleratura singers bringing weeds and social clingers
Hangers-on and fancy flingers
To the dress ball
Mushrooms and bowling pins
Stove pipe hats and other things I can t recall
From Juvenile hall
We re so unlucky and stuff
Woodrow Wilson never had it so tough
Dairy Queen and Vaseline and Maybelline
Paul Bunyan and James Dean

Allegory agencies of pre-Raphaelite paganry
And Shenandoah tapestries
Compared with good mahogany
Collapsing the undying postcard romance
With feline perspicacity
By the university
That night I held a paucity
Which you deemed common courtesy
I wasn t what you thought I d be
I shouldn t have invited you to dance

In my tree
I m halfway free
And in my chair
One quarter there
In my dream
One-sixteenth cream
In the coffee of the Courtier
Of the sycophant assistant to the king

So let me touch you
Let me touch you
Let me touch you
Let me touch you
