C# F#
Morning wakes softly and gently stirs the shadows from sleep

G# C#
dreaming of days long and lazy under the sun.

F#
This city can't make up her mind to rain or to shine, so she

G# G#7
does both at the same time, shooting rainbows across a

C# periwinkle sky.

C# F#
Once in awhile she pulls up her clouds and shows you her elegant side

G# G#7 C#
wild beauty she does not give freely. Green Lake your indigo waters seduce

F# G# G#7 C# your lover, the night, lights trace your shores while the deep blue descends on you,

F# G# C#
Showering longing kisses under the gaze of the moon's misty eyes.

C# F#
She asks for your soul to seal the deal and you sigh, you're not sure why

G# G#7 C#
you came but you know you can't leave.

C# F#
This city can't make up her mind to rain or to shine, so she does both at the

G# G#7 C#
same time, shooting rainbows across a periwinkle sky.
