E A B

E A
Morning wakes softly and gently stirs the shadows from sleep

B E
dreaming of days long and lazy under the sun.

A
This city can't make up her mind to rain or to shine, so she

B B7
does both at the same time, shooting rainbows across a

periwinkle sky.

E A
Once in awhile she pulls up her clouds and shows you her elegant side

B B7 E
wild beauty she does not give freely. Green Lake your indigo waters seduce

A B B7 E
your lover, the night, lights trace your shores while the deep blue descends on you,

A B E
Showering longing kisses under the gaze of the moon's misty eyes.

E A
She asks for your soul to seal the deal and you sigh, you're not sure why

B B7 E
you came but you know you can't leave.

E A
This city can't make up her mind to rain or to shine, so she does both at the

B B7 E
same time, shooting rainbows across a periwinkle sky.
